

LUKOIL is one of the world's leading vertically integrated oil & gas companies. Main activities of the Company are exploration and production of oil & gas, production of petroleum products and petrochemicals, and marketing of these outputs. LUKOIL Lubricants, part of the LUKOIL group, is focusing on the Lubricants Business, and is dedicated to develop its presence in Europe.

For our European Team,
we are looking for a dedicated and motivated:

Teamlead Technical Service & Support (m/f)

In this role you will:

- manage and develop the Technical Service Team in Europe
- support our customers and our sales team in Europe in terms of technical questions concerning specifications and applications of various Lubricant products
- introduce new products to existing and potential customers
- visit local and international customers to perform technical consultations
- execute internal and external technical trainings and workshops
- handle and analyse field & bench tests as well as Lubricant samples
- keep in touch with industrial and automotive OEM's for obtaining product approvals in cooperation with Product Management
- monitor and analyse the Lubricants market as well as competitor's products
- create technical presentations and fact sheets for communication, trainings and consulting

You are the right candidate, if you have:

- a completed technical school or university education (e.g. plant construction, mechanical engineering, automotive engineering, etc.)
- at least 5 years of relevant professional experience in a technical environment, preferably in the Lubricants business
- preferably completed the „Certified Lubrication Specialist“ (CLS) education
- excellent knowledge in the field of lubrication technology as well as solid knowledge about the operation of industrial plants and machines as well as vehicle engines
- strong leadership, communication and presentation skills
- an efficient, structured and service-oriented working style
- excellent English and German language skills (C1) – written and oral
- driving license B and a high willingness to travel

As employee at LUKOIL Lubricants you will:

- work in an international company and a cooperative team
- receive a market compliant annual gross salary starting from € 63.000,- according to qualification and experience

If you can offer the requested education and experience and want to take on a fresh challenge, please contact us with your CV in English at jobs-lubricants@lukoil.com